James Crane, from Darien, Connecticut, along with crew Brenda Crane, and Tom Allen Jr., saved the best for last. Going into the last leg of the last race, there were 16 boats between them and the finish line. Crane and his crew decided it was time for an all or nothing move and sailed to the far right corner of the course. The move paid off huge as they passed everyone ahead of them, winning the final race, and with it, the 2009 International Lightning Masters Championship. Crane also won the first race of the final day, finishing, with 9 total points for the regatta. Bill Mauk, from Miami, Florida finished second with 11 points. Peter Hall from Montreal, Quebec finished third with 15 points.
